Important Railroad Development in Southeastern Ky.

The Cumberland Northern R. P. is making location of their line between Barbourville and Manchester, 25 miles, and expect to let contract for grading in about 10 days, and hope to have the line completed to Manchester by Jan. 1, 1915.

The line has been surveyed from Barbourville to Beattyville, 75 miles, but will only be built as far as Manchester this year. Connection will be made with the L. & N. R. R. at Barbourville and when completed to Beattyville connection will be made with Lexington & Eastern R. R.

The maximum grade on the line between Barbourville and Manchester is nine-tenths of one percent and the road will be substantially built to handle the heavy coal and lumber tonnage that will be developed.

Manchester is the county seat of Clay county, and is in the center of the richest coal and timber in this section of Kentucky.

Chas. F. Heidrick, of Brooksville, Pa., is President of the Cumberland Northern R. R. and the other Directors and Officers of the company are Frank M. Heidrick and Dr. J. A. Haven, of Brooksville, Pa.; R. E. Heidrick and G. M. Richards, Jr. of Clarion, Pa.; Col. C. B. Lytle, of Manchester, Ky.; John Q. Heidrick, of San Francisco, Cal. and Paul D. Henderson, of La-Maine, Cal. The office of the company during construction will be at Barbourville, Ky.

The Richard Knob Lumber Co., composed of Charleston, W. Va. and Scranton, Pa., interests have upwards of 30,000 acres of selected timber and coal lands in the vicinity of Manchester, they will commence the development of their timber to furnish shipment of upwards of twenty million feet of lumber annually. It is estimated there is at least one billion feet of timber on the Orchard Knob and other lands, tributary to the road. The Manchester Mining & Mfg. Co., composed principally of Knoxville, Tenn., people have upwards of 30,000 acres of choice coal lands, tributary to the new road. The Clay County Mining Co., of Montpelier, Vt., the Campbell Coal Co., of Atlanta, Ga., and other concerns are also interested in the coal in Clay county.

M. E. Church.

The usual hours of worship will be observed by the members of this congregation:

Sunday school at 9:30 a.m.
Morning sermon at 11:00 a.m.
Evening service at 6:30 p.m.
all are cordially invited to meet with us and take part in these services.

E. R. Overley, Pastor.

Christian Church.

The usual services will be held at the court house next Sunday. It is especially desired that a large attendance be present both at Sunday school and the preaching service. Next Sunday is official Sunday school day in Kentucky. Let everybody come. The subject of the morning sermon will be "The Tabernacle and Its Significance." The subject for the evening will be "Lessons from the Baptism of Jesus." This will be a spiritual study of this incident in the Master's life.

J. W. Ligon, Minister.

Fellow Citizens of Knox and Whitley:-

I am presenting my claims to you for the Republican nomination for Representative, sole upon the belief that I can be of service to you, and that I am better qualified to fill the position than my opponents. If I thought either of them could better serve you than I, I would give them my support and quit the race. I am not alone in this opinion. Read what some of my friends say. I have letters of endorsement from my opponents home precinct, from his home town, Barbourville who asked me not to use their names. I have talked with a number of the best people of the district, who unhesitatingly promise me their support.

When I began teaching in Knox county I told the first trustees that signed my contract that I would try to do my best, and that I believed they would never have cause to regret their action. They didn't, and I was offered the school again, and Mr. Taylor's endorsement from Tedders attended my school that year. I told the trustees at Middlefork the same, they did not regret it. I worked there again and was offered the place further. In no precinct I was accorded the same consideration, and Mr. Donaldson's endorsement from Gray speaks for itself. He was one of the trustees. I have a number of such endorsements from people in every precinct where I am known. They speak for themselves.

I have naught to say against my opponent, but you have tried him in the Legislature. Don't you think it would be well to try "The right man"? I promise you that if elected I will be on the job. I will be there to answer roll call, and use my utmost endeavor to be a "live wire" in the Assembly and if there be a single vote that I can cast for the betterment of my constituents I will answer "here am I," and you shall receive the benefits. I pledge my utmost support of the Prohibition laws, or new ones that will more efficiently accomplish the aims intended, a revision of the tax law; and a repeal of the dog tax, better schools and "enactment of laws" for the masses and not the classes.

Read the endorsement of the W. C. T. U. Have you read the endorsements referred to above? Watch for them to be printed in this paper later on.

I thank the people for the loyal support and big majority you are going to give me in the August

I am most respectfully yours,
J. J. PRICE,
"The Right Man"

Live As They Did In Pioneer Days

QUAINT TRIO "DIS-COVERED" ON MISSOURI FARM

Years Have Brought But Little Change to "Aunt Betty" and Her Brothers on Gun Creek.

Aunt Betty Elliot, 86 years old; Jordan Elliot, 82; and Perry Elliot, 80, lived on the same farm, near Macon, Mo., since 1837. They never had a quarrel with anybody.

Never went to school.

Never swapped horses.

Don't own a dog of any kind.

Don't use tobacco in any form.

Don't belong to any church, but believe in God.

Never had a lawsuit.

Don't know what they are worth.

Keep their accounts with pins on shingles.

Never talked through a telephone.

Never turned a hungry man from the door.

Macon, Mo., April 21.—In the good year 1816, William Elliot, Kentucky emigrant, came to Missouri and patented a section of land on Gun Creek, in the northern part of the State. Hardly anybody knows where Gun Creek is, but nearly everybody in this part of the country now knows of the quaint backwoods home where the children of William Elliot have lived for nearly a century. Elliot had a large family. The three eldest children were Betty, Jordan and Perry. They devoted upon them to manage the household and they were busy in looking after the needs of their brothers and sisters that they never had time to get married. The other children moved away, the parents died, leaving Betty, Jordan and Perry to themselves. They found in each other all the human companionship they needed.

Nestled in the backwoods, from twelve to fifteen miles from any railroad, they hardly knew that the great Civil War was raging about them in the 60's. They occupied the same log cabin that was built by their father in 1828. For many years they lived exactly as the early pioneers did, making their own homespun garments, fetching water from Gun Creek, shooting game with flintlock rifles; in one way, however, the Ellots advanced. The two men were thrifty and they knew that some day that rich Missouri soil at out would be worth a great deal of money. So they began an early life to add to the estate. They picked up a section here and a section there until they acquired a great body of 2,000 acres. Much of this is woodland and very valuable now. Under hundreds of acres are rich coal beds that would bring the rise of $200 an acre for the coal alone.

Up until recent years the Ellots carried on their farming operations in the primitive manner of the pioneers. They would not eat the mares or tails of their horses. Their lands were enclosed by the old zig-zag rail fences.

Along in the 70's a frame house was built, but it was allowed to almost to ruin before it was repaired.

Flat rocks were placed upon the roof to keep the shingles

from blowing away. The "boys" hips two feet deep or more, the accumulation of years. In 1865 Perry and Jordan brought a wagon load of rocks from the creek for the purpose of digging and walling a well, but other duties called and they never got round to the job; they are today etching the water from Gun Creek just as they did in the days when there was a funny noise for a minute or two and we stopped. The man said the eagle he went dead. When I said he ought've fetched the rails he didn't laugh any more, but said he wished he had. We got towed into town and I got out, and I ain't never going to ride in one of them things again. But I'd like to ride on the steam cars a litt'le ways, you know—just once," and there was a wistful look on the kindly old face.

These three people are probably the most typical representatives of the pioneer days that can be found in all Missouri. And they possess every good quality of the pioneer; they have had no time for book learning" and the like of that, but they are as kindly and as hospitable as the richest blue blood that runs in patrician veins.

It is a little singular that this quiet family of a bygone age until an agent who was sent out to sell them some telephone stock ran across them. Of course the man who tipped the agent off did it as a joke, for the Ellots had no telephone, and didn't know what telephone stock was. But the agent was not at all aggravated. When he understood what an interesting family he had been sent out to meet, he laid business aside and spent the entire day as the guest of the old people. He saw the horses and mules which had never been shorn; the smokehouse and barns made of poles a grindstone worn to the diameter of a saucer; the old mission bell, hung high in a tree, and was used by Bettie to summon the boys from the field when she had their Johnnie cake and bacon ready for them; the young forest trees growing right up to the house; a wonderful colony of turkeys, geese, ducks and chickens, the pride of Aunt Betty; in other words, he saw an absolute reproduction of the sort of farm and household incident to the days of the first settlers. And this was in the twentieth century!

The telephone agent told his story and it wasn't long until people began to look up that wonderful Missouri family. Possibly the greatest event that ever occurred in Aunt Betty's life was

"I told 'em something would happen if we started out in that thing, and I wanted 'em to take the mules along, but they only laughed at me. Well, I set in and it went along all right until we got about ten miles out of the village, when there was a funny noise for a minute or two and we stopped. The man said the eagle he went dead. When I said he ought've fetched the rails he didn't laugh any more, but said he wished he had. We got towed into town and I got out, and I ain't never going to ride in one of them things again. But I'd like to ride on the steam cars a litt'le ways, you know—just once," and there was a wistful look on the kindly old face.

In speaking about the family, Jordan said:

"Maybe some folks might think our way of living was funny, but I can say this: We never had a tuss with anybody, never cheated in a hoss trade; don't hogg a log, never had a lawsuit; don't owe any man a cent."

"I'll study over that steam car trip," said Aunt Betty. "And if I can get Jordan and Perry in the nation, and we can get the work done up and it gets cooler maybe we'll go, but I don't know—we never was people to gad about much."

These people have close relatives here. W. M. Elliot being a brother to John C. Elliot who lived for many years on Little Richland Creek. Who died at the age of 89 years the peculiarity of these old people, is about a comparison with those who live in this county.

Special Correspondence.

W. R. Marsee, of Artemus, was in Warren this week.

S. R. Jennings, of Johnson City, spent last week in Camp.

S. P. Curnack was visiting homefolks in Bristol last week.

R. J. Rogers sat Sand in Barbourville with friends.

Lawrence Kuhn has returned to Warren after spending several days in W. Va., visiting friends.

Miss Kate Litton has resigned her position as Cashier for the Carter people and has returned to her home at Castwood, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Boddow and little daughter, of Barbourville, were the guests over Sunday of Dr. and Mrs. Snead.

Mrs. W. R. Raney and two children William and Cathine, left Monday for Wabash, Ind., to spend several weeks visiting homefolks.

S. S. McCormick, general purchasing agent for the Carter operation has severed his connections with his company and will locate in business in Bristol. Mr. McCormick has many friends in this section who will regret his leaving and will regret his leaving and will wish him much success in his new field.

Warren vs. Bennettsville

In a lopsided game last week, Warren easily defeated her old rival, Bennettsville in the first ball game of the season the score standing at the close 7 to 2. Notwithstanding the vast difference in the score, the game was very interesting. The work of short stop Jess Trosper of the visitors was a feature and he used the willow with telling effect. Jim Di on, pitching for Warren was never in much danger and pitched a splendid game when men were on bases.

Warren and Artemus will play next week and should be a good drawing card.

That Little Thing

"That," said the well informed young man, "is a garter snake. That little thing," exclaimed the incredulous maiden, "why isn't it small?"

And the whipper will whipped through the willows—and the night owl hooted to its mate.

Some Old Story

"Two years of Free-Trade is generally enough to make the public wish they had voted the other way," says the Waterloo (Ill.) Republican. "The present is no exception, and 1916 will show another great landslide."

It didn't require anything like two years this time to convince the public that Free-Trade is the thing they don't want. The present Tariff hadn't been in operation six months before they saw, and saw clearly, that it worked the very same way that every other Free-Trade enactment by the American Congress had worked—to the detriment of the country through the shutting down of American mills and workshops and the consequent dispiriting of American labor and capital in every line of industry and investment in every State in the Union.

Indeed, had they allowed their political animosities to cool and their better judgment to assert itself in 1912, which they didn't, the American people might have foreseen what hardships were headed right in behind the Free-Trade victory of that year. True some years had passed since they had experienced the evil effects of a Free-Trade Tariff, but still not so many that they couldn't recall those dark days and, in their calmer moments, wish that they might never look upon their like again.

The present Free-Trade period may be a little tougher than anybody looked for, but, we undertake to say, nobody is greatly surprised when tough times follow close upon the enactment of a non-Protective Tariff law. Day does not succeed day in night most surely.

Next Year and Business

This suggestion is being pressed upon business men: "Organize for next year. You elected McKinley on a business issue in 1896, and you can elect a man in opposition to Wilson if you go about the matter promptly and in the right way. Stand together and the fight's won."

The business interests undoubtedly elected Mr. McKinley. States which had always gone Republican went Republican that year by unprecedented majorities, while several States which never voted for a Republican Presidential candidate improved that opportunity. It was a victory achieved under a shibboleth which appealed directly to business interest, big and little.

Miss Hazel and Luther Sharp, and Clarence Logan attended church at Craig Chapel Saturday night.

Ed Mays visited homefolks Saturday and Sunday.

That you will keep so busy boasting that you won't have time to knock.

That you will vote, talk and work for a bigger, better, brighter town.

That you will help to make this a good town so the town can make a good.

That you will increase the value of your property by improving its appearance.

That you will say something good about this town every time you write a letter.

That you will invest your money here where you made it and where you can watch it.

That you will not point out the town's defects to a stranger nor fail to point them out to a neighbor.

That you will keep your premises cleaned up and your buildings repaired as a matter of both pride and profit.

That you will brag about this town so much that you will have to work for this town in order to keep from being a tar.

That you will take half a day right now to pick up the odds and ends around the place and turn them into either use, money or ashes.

That you will contribute as much money as you can afford and as much enthusiasm as anybody, to any movement to develop the town's resources.

That you will make friends with the farmers, if a town man, or with the town folks, if a farmer, and help work together for the good of the community of which this town is the center.

Epworth League Social

The Epworth League of the M. E. Church was entertained at Cobweb Social given by Mrs. F. D. Sampson last Saturday evening.

The affair was unique, and very much enjoyed by all present. Artificial cobwebs of twine were arranged throughout the building and premises. Each guest assisted in unraveling a web, and in doing so met his or her partner.

BUSINESS HINTS

To inspire enthusiasm, you've got to be enthusiastic yourself.

To get others to see a thing, you've got to see it yourself.

To get your customer to believe in your goods, you've got to show him that you believe in them yourself.

Tales that is not the result of study, trial, test and trouble, is usually common ordinary, second hand air.

Lots of men think they are enthusiastic when they are only hysterical.

A healthy enthusiasm springs from belief in yourself and your proposition.

CARE OF FERNS AND PALMS

House Plants Need Much Attention, But Their Beauty Makes It Well Worth While.

This is the time when ferns and palms need a little attention. Ferns seldom need repotting, but if the soil has become heavy, close and "sour" it should be removed, new and clean stratum put in the pot and a mixture of fresh loam and silver sand. Cut off the withered leaves, being careful not to injure any new fronds that are coming up.

If the repotting has not been necessary, turn out the top compost and fill up with the mixture of fresh loam and sand.

Palms may be treated in the same way, and the leaves should never be allowed to wither entirely on the stem, or the plant will die. They should be removed before the decay reaches the center stem. If the withered tips are snipped off directly the decay will often be arrested for a considerable time. Palms must never be placed in a draft, nor watered in the ordinary way at the roots. Once a week they should be placed, pot and all, in a pail of tepid water—rain water is best—left to stand for an hour or two, then drained.

The leaves should be sponged carefully on both sides with tepid water and a tiny sponge or wad of cotton.

Ferns, especially the finer kinds, are often watered too lavishly and frequently, with the result that they rot. They should be kept moist, but not wet. Water in which cut flowers have been kept is excellent for them, and they like a little cold tea occasionally. They should be washed with a fine watering hose at least every other day and set out in fine rain on a mild day.

ROBERT B. JONES, Manager.

His Natural Thought.

A South Dakota railroad is noted for its execrable roadbed. A new brakeman was making his first trip over the road at night and was standing in the center of the car, grimly clutching the seats to keep erect. Suddenly the train struck a smooth place in the track and slid along without sound. Seizing his lantern, the brakeman ran for the door. "Jump for your lives!" he shouted. "She is off the track!"

Killing Off the Race.

From the Christian era till the present time, as statisticians and historians tell us, there have been less than two hundred and forty warless years. Up to the middle of the nineteenth century it was roughly computed that nearly seven billion men had died in battle since the beginning of recorded history, a number equal to almost five times the present estimated population of the globe.—Christian Herald.

Three eggs beaten without separating, nine tablespoonfuls of sugar, nine tablespoonfuls of milk, four tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of cinnamon, two cups of flour, two teaspoonsfuls of baking powder, a pinch of salt and one-half a cupful of nuts.

Mix eggs with sugar, then add butter, milk, cinnamon and salt. Lastly, well sifted flour, to which you have already added the baking powder. Beat until light. Roll out on floured baking board until about one-half an inch thick, cut with circular cutter, cutting another ring in the center, handle as little as possible.

Have deep fat, smoking hot, drop the crullers into it, first trying a small piece of raw potato in the fat.

If this turns golden brown at once, the fat is at the proper temperature.

They lie all of success or failure.

The crullers should swell up and turn a beautiful light brown in less than a minute.

Remove at once with wire dipper. Roll in powdered sugar and cinnamon.

Famous Medicine

Lexington, April 22.—"I have sold Tanlac, since the beginning of its introduction in Lexington, to the mayors of a number of cities; county judges, circuit judges, and to many of the prominent business and professional men in Kentucky," says Wm. E. Stagg, the Lexington druggist. "The demand for the preparation has been phenomenal. In all of my twenty years' experience in the drug business I have never seen anything that equals it."

"In addition to the Lexington demand, Tanlac has been shipped from my store to Kansas City, Mo.; Colorado Springs, Colo.; Denver, Col.; Memphis, Tenn.; Meridian, Miss.; Bonilla, S. L.; Pittsburg, Pa.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Louisville, Ky.; Tillin, Okla.; Columbia, Tenn.; Palm Beach, Fla.; Phoenix, Arizona; Los Angeles, Calif., and many other points throughout the country that are too numerous to mention. You may rest assured that every city in Kentucky has, too, heard of Tanlac.

"I can only account for the great demand for this preparation by the fact that it is a good medicine. That is proven by the numerous statements from those who have tested the medicine in cases of catarrhal affections, of stomach, kidney or liver complaints, and are now convinced of its excellent merits. The public have been slow to appreciate the Tanlac merit.

"Practically $15,000 worth of Tanlac has been sold and distributed through my store within the past seventy days. Such a demand is most certainly unprecedented."

"I take pleasure in commanding Mr. Cooper and his very excellent preparation."

Tanlac, the preparation referred to, is now sold in Barbourville only by Herndon Drug Co.—adv.

LIV-VER-LAX

All the Effectiveness, Not the Effect of Calomel

Liv-Ver-Lax is one of the most important medical discoveries of recent years. For a long time medical experts, realizing the harmful effects of calomel, have been striving to find a liver cleanser that would be just as effective as calomel, and yet be absolutely harmless in its action. Recently this remedy was actually put forth by L. K. Grigsby, in his Liv-Ver-Lax.

Liv-Ver-Lax is a harmless vegetable compound, designed solely for the treatment of liver complaints. The immediate favor it has met with in thousands of homes is proof positive of its real value.

If you feel worn out, tongue coated, and skin yellow, don't delay until it becomes dangerous, nip the trouble in the bud with Liv-Ver-Lax. Insist on the genuine, bearing the signature and likeness of L. K. Grigsby, which is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. For sale by all druggists.

Our Shadow.

Everyone of us casts a shadow. There hangs above us a sort of umbrella—a strange, indestructible something—which we call the personal shadow, which has its effect on every other life on which it falls. It goes with us wherever we go. It is not something we can shake off when we will, as we lay aside a garment. It is something that always pours out from our life like light from a lamp. The heat from a lamp, like perfume from a flower, etc.
